

Existing Elements

Portfolio for Writing Assessment

Assesses students' writing in their upper division courses and collects data on student performance.

Writing Center

Offers students individualized feedback on their writing at all stages of the writing process.

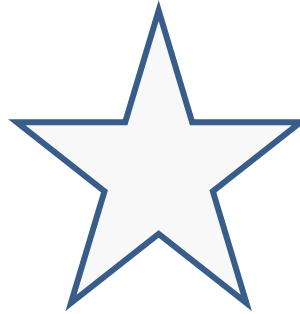

Undergraduate Journals

Provide venues for students' academic and/or creative work.

Information Literacy

Faculty partner with librarians to teach discipline-specific research strategies.

Writing across the Curriculum

Writing Intensive Courses

- Writing instruction embedded in courses
- Focus on writing process and revision
- Courses may be within disciplines or GE
- Courses are small
- Faculty are supported

Elements in Progress

Faculty Seminars

Support faculty incorporating writing instruction into their classes.

Potential Elements

Faculty Learning Communities

Faculty across the disciplines engage in research and attend retreats, workshops, and other events to facilitate collaboration.

Writing Fellows

Writing tutors who receive special training are embedded in writing intensive courses to assist the faculty and students.

Writing Plans

Faculty members define and characterize writing in their disciplines and design curricula to help students develop core knowledge and skills.